Quote of the Week

We seem to have trouble with critical thinking. And our political system doesn't help.

Barack Obama

Value of the Week

Critical Thinking

Well done and thank you to everyone involved in Fright Night this week. It involved a sizeable cast of ghost, ghouls and witches and I am so grateful to all of the staff, their families and several parents for helping out. Hiding in wet leaves in cold conditions is not everyone's idea of fun but we certainly generated special memories for the children! Nayne Roberts deserves a special mention for imagining the whole thing (slightly worrying...!) and for putting it all together.

Children in the prep school will be looking forward to a longer weekend this weekend and after Wednesday night and the exams, I am sure that they all deserve it. The boiler is finally working too so we look forward to a more comfortable final three weeks!

This week in Tick Tock the Butterfly room have been singing all of the different counting songs and have been creating them using paint, glue and crayons. We have also been playing in porridge oats with the vehicles and diggers.

is 5th December. You should by now have received bags. There are more in the Front Hall if needed, or any old black bin bag will do. Please do try to separate good children's clothes out in order that we can sell them at the fete.

Riding for the Disabled

We were very honoured today to have a visit from one of our chosen

The children wrote a poem about all their favourite things they would put into their magic boxes and thoroughly enjoyed decorating them with glitter!

They have also had a brilliant time programming Pixie!

Moor Park Fright Night

The legendary Moor Park Fright Night - just amazing. A cast of many! Massive thank you to those who helped out on the night, from Zombies to make-up artists, to story tellers and group leaders. A big thank you to the catering team who pulled out all the stops and to the boarding team for making it happen. But mostly a big thank you to Naynne and the Gappies for putting it all together. More pictures on our various social media platforms but there is a full album on our Facebook page here.

A shout out please for any old squash racquets that you no longer need!
