Quote of the Week

"Piglet sidled up to Pooh from behind.

"Pooh!" he whispered.

"Yes, Piglet?"

"Nothing," said Piglet, taking Pooh's paw. "I just wanted to be sure of you." — A.A. Milne,

Week 4

Prep School headmasters met at IAPS annual conference this week in Westminster, just around the corner from the latest in political upheavals. We live in interesting times but it was clear from conference that the sector is as focused as ever on determinedly providing the very best for your children. This is not something to be ashamed of, rather the opposite in fact, and it was gratifying to hear from politicians who agree that knocking excellence is no way to raise educational standards in the country.

Back at the chalk face the staff and children have been as busy as ever, engaged in the kind of rich, broad and varied curriculum that we know works so well. We will continue to focus on them whilst planning for all eventualities and I must say that it is nice to be back in Shropshire this evening preparing for another action packed week!

Hereford Festival

Hot off the press!

After the very sad news that Hereford Festival had finished last years after 80 years, a new company named Encore has decided to take on the responsibility of funding the festival and running the administration side of things. This is exciting news for both the music and Speech and Drama departments. Whilst the music side off things will be run in the city if Hereford, it looks as if next year, the festival will be held all under one roof at the Hereford Racecourse which would be a sensible idea. Mrs Jenkins will be attending many meetings to formulate a syllabus. The date has yet to be confirmed, but it looks as if it will be running a little earlier than usual, at the beginning of March. Great news for everybody- watch this space!

Mind setters of the Week

Creativity - Josh G (year 4) worked very hard to write his own version of the Iron Man story. In it, Hogarth the boy in the story shoots the Iron man with a water pistol. This would mean he went rusty and couldn't move. Genius!

Pre-Prep goes to William BV for resilience in getting their own outdoor cloths on.

TICK TOCK

This week in Tick Tock the Caterpillar the children have been learning about space. They have gotten crafty and made their own paper plate aliens.

The Butterfly room have expanded on their construction topic and have been playing with Trucks and big wheels. They have done this indoors and in our outdoor area! They made a fantastic table top picture using the tractors in paint.

The Butterfly room also had a go at some new challenges with Mr Harry and had fun with the pom poms in their music session with Becky.
